NSC 4-A
17 Dec 1947

SUMMARY

By memorandum dated 17 December 1947, the Executive Secretary of the National Security Council, Admiral Sidney W. Souers, transmits to the DCI, Admiral Roscoe H. Hillenkoetter, the Council's Directive 4-A as amended and approved by the Council as of that date. The Directive is summarized in paragraph sequence:

1. In light of psychological efforts of the USSR, its satellite countries and Communist groups, the foreign information activities of the U.S. Government must be supplemented by covert psychological operations.
2. The similiarity of operational method and need for secrecy involved in covert psychological and intelligence activities renders the Central Intelligence Agency the logical agency to conduct such operations. Hence, the National Security Council directs the DCI to initiate and conduct covert psychological operations to counteract Soviet and Soviet-inspired activities.
3. The Director of Central Intelligence should ensure that such psychological operations are consistent with foreign policy and overt information activities. He should keep informed appropriate agencies of the U.S. Government, both at home and abroad (including diplomatic and military representatives), of such operations as will directly affect them.
4. Affirms DCI preclusion in the instance of secret techniques, sources or contacts.

HISTORICAL NOTES

1. No true copy of the NSC 4-A as forwarded to the DCI appears to be in existence. In his Agency history titled, The Central Intelligence Agency  An Instrument of Power  to 1950, [REDACTED] states that the copy existing in the Minutes of the fourth meeting of the NSC on December 17, 1947, as "TAB B" is a draft directive to the DCI before its final form. 25X1A9a

CIA GENERAL ORDER
CIA REGULATION
1 Dec 1950

SUMMARY

1. Effective 1 December 1950, an Agency reorganization depicted on an attached organization chart of CIA is effective. Attached organization charts of component units are also effective 1 December 1950, but are subject to study and comment by Assistant Directors and become finally effective 1 January 1951, unless otherwise notified of change. [See Exhibits.]

2. Provides for a new Deputy Director position called Deputy Director for Operations. No incumbent is named. Places under the new Deputy Director three existing components, namely, Office of Special Operations, Office of Policy Coordination and Office of Operations.

HISTORICAL NOTES

1. The Executive Registry and ADSO files show that Mr. Allen W. Dulles was working out of the DCI's office during the month of December 1950. In one instance he was addressed as Deputy Director (Operations), but all other correspondence was addressed to him as "Mr. Dulles" and memoranda by him were signed "Allen W. Dulles," sans title. Research to date has been unable to find a document which states the date on which Mr. Dulles entered on duty in the CIA and his official capacity at that time. Likewise, an Agency directive specifically naming Mr. Dulles as Deputy Director (Operations) does not seem to exist.
